

The Freshwater Biological Association

Privacy Policy

Who we are

The Freshwater Biological Association (FBA) is a thriving membership association, independent scientific organisation and a registered charity (charity no. 214440). Founded in 1929, we promote freshwater science through innovative research, maintained specialist scientific facilities, a programme of scientific meetings, production of publications, and by providing sound independent scientific opinion.

Our Policy

This policy sets out the basis on which any personal data (i.e. any information which identifies you, or which can be identified as relating to you personally) we collect from you, or that you provide to us, will be processed by us. Please read the following carefully to understand our views and practices regarding your personal data and how we will treat it. This is to ensure that you remain informed and in control of your information.

Please read this Privacy Policy carefully before you start to use the website. If you have any questions or issues please contact us.

We are committed to keeping your personal data safe, and we do not share your data with third parties.

Why do we collect your personal data?

We use your personal data for a variety of different reasons which are described below, but we will only ever do this when we have a reason to do so.

Becoming a Member: We collect your personal data so that we can administer your membership and to ensure you receive your benefits (like FBA News for example).

Buying a book from us or signing up for journal access: We collect your personal data so that we can process and send you books or articles that you have purchased.

Booking on one of our training courses or hiring our facilities: We collect your personal data so that we can process your booking.

Donations: We collect your personal data so that we can administer your donations.

Library: We collect your personal data so that we can supply you with documents.

Personal data that we collect

We will mainly collect basic information from you including name, postal address, email address, telephone number, details of your interests and preferences and bank details if you are joining as a member or buying one of our products or services. If you are joining as a student member, we also take information about what course and where you are studying.

Our website also uses cookies (see below for further information on this).

How we use information

We only ever use your personal data with your consent, or where it is necessary in order to:

- enter into, or perform, a contract with you;
- comply with a legal duty;
- protect your vital interests;

- for our own lawful interests, provided your rights don't override the these.

In any event, we'll only use your information for the purpose or purposes it was collected for (or else for closely related purposes).

Sensitive personal data

We do not normally collect or store sensitive personal data (such as information relating to health, beliefs or political affiliation) about supporters and members. However, there are some situations where this will occur (e.g. if you volunteer with us or if you have an accident on one of our sites). If this does occur, this information will be retained for legal reasons, to protect us (including in the event of an insurance or legal claim) and for safeguarding purposes. In this situation we'll take extra care to ensure your privacy rights are protected, and we will collect the data from you directly.

If an accident or incident occurs on one of our sites, at one of our events or involving one of our staff (including volunteers) then we'll keep a record of this (which may include personal data and sensitive personal data).

If you volunteer with us then we may collect extra information about you such as references, criminal records checks, details of emergency contacts, medical conditions.

Marketing

We also collect your personal data so that we can send you information about our work, and products and services that we feel will be of interest to you. This information is in addition to the above and is defined as 'direct marketing', as defined by the ICO. We use two different lawful bases for processing your data for 'direct marketing':

1. Legitimate interest – This is where we have identified a genuine and legitimate reason for contacting you, which crucially does not override your rights or interests.
2. Opt-in consent – This is where you have given us express permission to contact you, which is in line with data protection.

FBA News – Our members' magazine is provided as a benefit to our members. We send this out to all members (unless you specifically ask us not to), so if you choose to unsubscribe from general marketing, this will NOT affect your subscription to FBA News.

We respect your right to update your preferences at any time, which can be done by contacting us directly (see below).

Your rights

We respect your right to control your data. Your rights include:

a) The right to be informed

This privacy notice outlines how we capture, store and use your data. If you have any questions about any elements of this policy, please contact us.

b) The right of access

If you wish to obtain a record of the personal data we hold about you, please contact us and we will respond within one month. There is no fee for this request.

c) The right to rectification

If we have captured information about you that is inaccurate or incomplete, we will update it.

d) The right to erase

You can ask us to remove your personal details from our records.

e) The right to restrict processing

You can ask us to stop using your personal data.

f) The right to data portability

You can ask to obtain your personal data from us for your own purposes.

g) The right to object

You can ask to be excluded from marketing activity.

h) Rights in relation to automated decision making and profiling

We respect your right not to be subject to a decision that is based on automated processing.

Data retention policy

We will only use and store information for as long as it is required for the purposes it was collected for. When it is no longer required it will be deleted.

Children

We will not collect, process or store personal details if you are under the age of 13, unless we have permission from your parent or guardian to do so. This is in line with data protection law.

Other websites

Our site contain links to other websites. If you follow a link to any of these websites, please note that these websites have their own privacy policies and that we do not accept any responsibility or liability for these policies or the content of these websites. Please check these policies before you submit any personal data to these websites.

Our use of Cookies

Like most websites we use cookies to better the users' experience while visiting the website. Cookies are very small text files that are placed on your computer or device when you browse websites.

There are two types of cookie you may encounter when using our site:

First party cookies: these are our own cookies, controlled by us and used to provide information about usage of our site.

Third party cookies: these are cookies found in other companies' internet tools which we are using to enhance our site.

The cookies in use to deliver Google Analytics service are described in the table below.

Cookie	Title	Description
__utma	Google Analytics	These cookies are used to store information, such as what time your current visit occurred, whether you have been to the site before, and what site referred you to the web page.
__utmb
__utmc		These cookies contain no personally identifiable information but they will use your computer's IP address to know from where in the world you are accessing the Internet.
__utmv		Google stores the information collected by these cookies on servers in the United States. Google may transfer this information to third-parties where required to do so by law, or where such third-parties process the information on Google's behalf.
__utmz

Opt-out

In order to provide website visitors with more choice on how data is collected by Google Analytics, Google has developed the Google Analytics Opt-out Browser Add-on. The add-on communicates with the Google Analytics JavaScript (ga.js) to stop data being sent to Google Analytics. The Google Analytics Opt-out Browser Add-on does not affect usage of the website in any other way. A link to further information on the Google Analytics Opt-out Browser Add-on is provided below for your convenience.
